

Uber for Business

Citadel enhances the employee experience with Uber for Business

Background

Renowned hedge fund Citadel has always prioritized strong internal culture and worker wellness. By tapping into Uber for Business, they were able to expand their suite of benefits through travel, commute, and meal-delivery offerings.

Solution

As an alternative to public transportation, Citadel offers employees a commute stipend they can use on rides with Uber. With a recurring meal program benefit through Uber for Business, some employees also receive credit to order from restaurants on Uber Eats. And to create “surprise and delight” moments for current and prospective employees, Citadel also leverages vouchers and gift cards that can be redeemed on rides or meals.

Benefits

Many Citadel employees already take personal rides with Uber and/or order meals for delivery with Uber Eats, so tapping into their company-managed profiles is seamless. They also appreciate the ability to request a ride at any time and the variety of restaurants they can choose to order from. Plan administrators benefit from the platform’s flexibility and detailed analytics. The centralized dashboard helps them create region-specific programs, amend them as needed, and manage expenses all in one place.

Uber for Business is a global platform that lets companies of any size manage rides, meals, and local deliveries. For more information, please visit uber.com/business.

Industry

Finance

Business size

Enterprise

Use case

Business travel, commute program, in-office meal program, vouchers and gift cards

“The health and well-being of our colleagues is a top priority. The benefits we provide, both in and out of the office, contribute to the strong culture of our firm as well as the satisfaction and productivity of our amazing team members.”

Matt Jahansouz

Citadel Chief of People Officer